

Overview

The Indiana Economic Development Corporation (IEDC) is the state of Indiana's lead economic development agency. The IEDC was officially established by Governor Mitch Daniels in February 2005 to support economic development efforts in Indiana, replacing the former Indiana Department of Commerce. The IEDC is organized as a public-private partnership, governed by a 12-member board of directors chaired by Governor Daniels. The IEDC's chief mission is to grow and retain businesses in Indiana and to attract new businesses to the state.

Message from the IEDC

Indiana's pro-business environment and low business costs enabled us to compete and win in the global competition for new jobs and business investment in 2008.

In 2008, 151 companies from across the state, country or world chose Indiana over another place for their job-creating investments. These companies will invest more than $4.21 billion in our state and create 18,659 new Indiana jobs over the next several years at an average hourly wage of $22.62 – substantially above the current statewide average of $18.40 per hour.

Since the establishment of the IEDC in early 2005, Indiana has set records for competitive job creation. A total of 637 companies have committed to create 78,688 new jobs and invest $18.8 billion in their Indiana operations since 2005. Nearly half of these new jobs will be located in communities with populations of 25,000 or less — evidence that our continued focus on reviving the economies of Indiana's small towns and rural counties is paying off.

Just as importantly, the state has reduced direct incentives to companies by more than $30,000 per new job – from a high of $37,752 in 2004 to just $7,278 in 2008 – which results in quicker financial return on the state's investment of tax credits in new and expanding companies.

Companies committing to Indiana in 2008 will create jobs all across the state in a variety of industries. These include life sciences companies such as Cook Pharmica (Bloomington), MED Institute (West Lafayette), Dormir LLC (Carmel), and Schwarz Pharma (Seymour); information technology firms like ExactTarget (Indianapolis), Alorica (Terre Haute), and GyanSys (Indianapolis); and manufacturing companies like Brevini (Yorktown), EnerDel (Indianapolis), KIK Custom Products (Elkhart), Clarcor (Jeffersonville), and TriEnda (Marion).

Governor Mitchell E. Daniels, Jr.

Governor Mitchell E. Daniels, Jr IEDC, Chairman of the Board

E. Mitchell Roob, Jr.
Secretary of Commerce

Indiana's reputation as a great place for business has garnered national attention. Site Selection magazine, Forbes, Chief Executive magazine, CNBC, the Tax Foundation and Development Counsellors International all ranked Indiana as the Midwest's leading state for business. Indiana is also one of only 10 states in the nation with an AAA credit rating, the highest rating assigned by Standard & Poor's Rating Service.

Former Secretary of Commerce Nate Feltman deserves great thanks for leading the IEDC to new job-creating successes in 2008. The foresight of the last four years has positioned us well to weather the current economic storm. We pledge to continue to work to enhance Indiana's position as a destination of choice for companies looking to expand, achieve and succeed.

Business Development

The IEDC's business development mission is supported by an aggressive and strategic approach to business outreach and engagement. By targeting industries where Indiana has a strategic advantage, the IEDC is able to quickly identify high-priority opportunities for the state and engage company decision makers and their advisors.

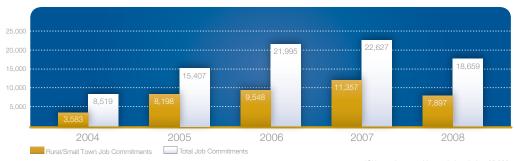

Companies committing to Indiana in 2008 represent diverse industries, including life sciences, advanced manufacturing (automotive, aerospace and pharmaceutical), food processing, biofuels, logistics/distribution, motorsports, and insurance and financial services.

The IEDC in 2008 worked with many existing Indiana companies to encourage their further growth and expansion. In fact, more than 80 percent of all competitive projects were with existing Indiana companies. Moreover, almost half of these projects were located in cities and communities of less than 25,000 residents.

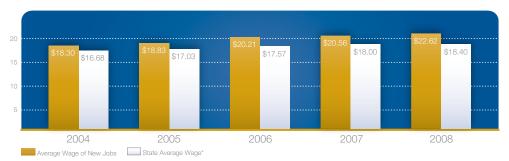

In addition to the competitive successes, worker training and expansion opportunities with existing Indiana companies in 2008 resulted in commitments to create 3,299 new jobs and invest more than $1.17 billion in capital improvements.

The IEDC partnered with other state agencies this past year to continue implementation of Indiana's strategic plan for economic growth, Accelerating Growth, which outlines 37 statewide initiatives that focus on innovation, talent and investment in Indiana. Through 2008, 25 of the plan's economic initiatives were completed while another 12 continue to move toward completion.

Industry Focus

The IEDC aggressively seeks out job-creating investments in all industries. However, special emphasis is placed on the following sectors, which have the potential to leverage Indiana's natural competitive advantages and to attract the type of quality jobs that lead to further economic prosperity and economic diversification:

- Advanced Manufacturing
- Film
- Information Technology
- Insurance and Financial Services
- Life Sciences
- Motorsports
- Transportation, Distribution and Logistics
- Value-added Agriculture

Shovel Ready

Indiana's Shovel Ready program expanded to 38 sites in 2008 and continues to lower the cost of site selection and facility construction time for businesses, improve efficiency of state permitting, and improve the ability of Indiana communities to attract new economic development projects

To qualify for Shovel Ready status, a site must undergo an environmental screening process, thus qualifying for expedited permitting with state regulatory agencies and enabling quick business investment and expansion. The Shovel Ready program plays a vital role in state economic development efforts by helping companies identify sites that can be rapidly developed and are ready for investment.

Indiana Sites & Buildings Database

The Indiana Sites & Buildings Database greatly enhances the site selection process by listing all available properties across the state at one convenient location on the IEDC Web site, AccelerateIndiana.com.

The Sites & Buildings Database includes available property site-selection queries, property reports, dynamic demographic analysis, a property input site and property listing database, and the renewal and maintenance of property listings.

Users can click on any location in the state to see a map showing available properties in that area. The database will generate presentation-quality reports based on the user's requirements. The Sites & Buildings Database is updated by the Indiana Business Research Center using an online Geographic Information System application.

Economic Development Legislation

The governor and the IEDC worked with members of the Indiana General Assembly to support new legislation supportive of long-term economic growth. Major economic development legislation from the 2008 legislative session included:

- Property Tax Reform Act This will provide businesses, homeowners and farmers with cost certainty regarding state property taxes by capping homeowner property taxes at 1 percent of a home's assessed value, apartments and agricultural land at 2 percent of assessed value, and business property at 3 percent. The act also begins the process of making the caps permanent by placing them into the Indiana constitution.
- Further Elimination of the Inventory Tax This provision changed the 100 percent tax deduction on inventory to an exemption and removes inventory from the definition of personal property subject to tax.
- Media Production Expenditure Tax Credit This creates a refundable tax credit of up to 15 percent for media production expenditures made in Indiana. Eligible expenses may include pre-production, production and post-production expenses.

National Recognition

Indiana continued to outpace the competition in 2008, attracting new jobs and garnering national attention for its improved business climate. Here are a few examples:

- Indiana is among the best states in the nation for business, ranking first in the Midwest and eighth nationally in Chief Executive magazine's fourth annual "Best & Worst States" survey (March). Indiana is the highest ranked state outside of the Sun Belt.
- Indiana has the lowest business cost index in the Midwest and sixth lowest in the country, notes Forbes magazine (July).
- Indiana ranks first in the Midwest in the Milken Institute's Cost of Doing Business Index, which is based on wage cost, tax burden, electricity cost, industrial rent cost and office rent cost (August).
- Indiana ranks first in the Midwest and 12th nationally in the Tax Foundation's 2008 Business Tax Climate Index (October).
- Indiana is the most improved state for business in the nation, according to both CNBC (July) and Site Selection magazine (November).

Domestic Outreach

The IEDC met with more than 90 site selection consultants and industry and company leaders during a series of business development events and meetings designed to entice out-of-state businesses to consider locating or expanding in Indiana. The campaign touted Indiana's low business taxes, low workers' compensation and unemployment insurance rates, high-quality working environment, and overall business competitiveness in meetings held in Dallas (February), New York (May), Chicago (August) and Atlanta (September).

In coordination with local economic development officials, the IEDC also led numerous engagement efforts throughout 2008. These included:

- BIO International Convention, San Diego, California (June) The largest life sciences and biotech trade show in the world
- Performance Racing Industry, Orlando, Florida (December) The largest motorsports trade show in the world
- Site Consultant and Industry Conferences
 - Area Development Consultants Forum, Scottsdale, Arizona (December)
 - Center for Automotive Research Conference, Traverse City, Michigan (August)
 - CoreNet Global Summit, San Diego, California (May)
 - Expansion Management Roundtables, Vail, Colorado (March), Pinehurst, North Carolina (June), and Tucson, Arizona (October)
 - Industrial Asset Management Council, Scottsdale, Arizona (April)
 - Society of Industrial and Office Realtors, Washington, D.C. (April), and Minneapolis, Minnesota (October)

Business Development

International Outreach

Foreign investment represents an important element of the state's economic growth strategy to bring more new jobs, opportunity and capital investment to communities across Indiana. Business today is global and building relationships is essential to winning new opportunities.

The IEDC's international development efforts are supported by field offices in six international locations. These offices focus primarily on identifying investment opportunities with international companies.

International companies in 2008 committed to invest $1.98 billion into their Indiana operations and to create nearly 2,500 new jobs. Since 2005, international companies have committed more than $8 billion into their Indiana operations and pledged to create more than 15,800 new jobs.

According to a 2008 study by IBM Global Business Services, Indiana ranked number one on a per capita basis in North America in the creation of production jobs through international investment in 2007– the second consecutive year that Indiana has topped the study.

In an effort to capture more job-creating investments from abroad, the IEDC led its fourth mission in four years to Japan in September. On that mission, Sony DADC signed an agreement to expand its operations in Terre Haute and to create up to 85 new Indiana jobs.

Other international successes in 2008 include Italian-based Brevini's decision to locate its U.S. headquarters and first North American wind turbine gear design and manufacturing center in Yorktown, and Belgian-based Schwarz Pharma's decision to expand its pharmaceutical manufacturing and distribution center in Seymour.

Entrepreneurship

Indiana's Entrepreneurial Culture

The IEDC has brought renewed emphasis to the role that entrepreneurship must play in Indiana's economic development. Through a variety of programs and services, the IEDC offers emerging and small companies financing, training, grant procurement and peer networking opportunities.

In 2008, the IEDC worked to enhance Indiana's entrepreneurial culture through a variety of activities that encouraged, supported and informed Indiana entrepreneurs and small business owners. IEDC activities included:

- Indiana Collegiate Entrepreneur Career Connection, an October 29 event that gave more than 200 college students the opportunity to meet with 30 of Indiana's top entrepreneurial companies.
- Indiana Entrepreneurship Week, held October 27-31, which featured statewide events and activities to inspire, inform and celebrate entrepreneurs who start and grow their companies in Indiana. Entrepreneurship Week events attracted more than 2,000 attendees.
- The Indiana Venture Idol Competition, held October 28, which showcased 21 Indiana entrepreneurs who have exciting new innovations hitting the market. The finale for the statewide contest was held before an audience of 200 angel investors, venture capitalists and peer entrepreneurs.
- Indiana BizCafe (www.IndianaBizCafe.com), a unique Web site designed to match entrepreneurial companies with resources to enhance their growth, including access to capital, mentors, partners, employees and contacts.
- INDURE (www.INDURE.org), a Web site which helps entrepreneurial businesses and investors identify university-developed technologies and research expertise through an online searchable database of researchers at Ball State University, Indiana University, Purdue University, and the University of Notre Dame.
- The Indiana Companies to Watch Awards, a unique program that showcased Indiana's highest-performing private companies. More than 500 business leaders attended an August 27 inaugural event to celebrate the success of some of Indiana's leading firms.
- Meet the Researchers Reception, held May 9, which attracted more than 150 venture capitalists, angel investors and business executives to a first-ever event that showcased the top researchers and innovators from Indiana University, Purdue University, and the University of Notre Dame.

21st Century Research and Technology Fund

As the key catalyst in the development of a robust innovation economy in Indiana, the 21st Century Research and Technology Fund (21 Fund) invests in market-changing technologies that have the potential to create high-growth companies and high-wage, high-skill jobs for Hoosiers.

Entrepreneurship

The goal of the 21 Fund is to enhance commercial development of new technologies and encourage the creation of partnerships between universities and entrepreneurial businesses. These partnerships build on the innovation process of converting innovative ideas into successful Indiana companies.

Under IEDC management since 2005, the fund has shifted the focus of its investments from early stage research projects to product development and testing initiatives led by high-tech, entrepreneurial companies. The fund also increased the emphasis on job creation as a criterion for making awards and supplemented the highly respected technical review process with an equally rigorous business review.

In 2008, the 21 Fund made 13 awards totaling more than $18.5 million to Indiana ventures that are actively developing and commercializing innovative new products.

The following companies received 21 Fund awards in 2008 (excludes SBIR/STTR matching awards):

- CSTX Inc. (CS-Keys)
- FAST Diagnostics
- First Precision LLC
- Indiana Nanotech LLC
- Indigo BioSystems Inc.
- InfraWare Inc.
- INphoton LLC
- Interactions Corp.
- Kylin Therapeutics Inc.
- My Health Care Manager LLC
- Nanovis LLC
- PDS Biotechnology Corp.
- SonarMed Inc.

SBIR/STTR Matching Program

Small Business Innovation Research (SBIR) and Small Business Technology Transfer (STTR) grants can provide the means to transform cutting edge ideas and technologies into commercial ventures creating new jobs for Hoosiers.

In 2008 the IEDC continued the SBIR/STTR Phase I matching program through the 21st Century Research and Technology Fund. Many of Indiana's SBIR/STTR Phase I award recipients utilize this program to leverage federal SBIR/STTR grants as they invest in promising new technologies. In 2008, 41 innovative SBIR/STTR grant recipients received $3.7 million in matching funds through this program.

The IEDC launched the Indiana SBIR Phase II Commercialization Enhancement Program (ISCEP) in 2008, establishing Indiana as one of only two states in the nation to offer an SBIR Phase II enhancement program. Modeled after the highly successful SBIR Phase I matching program, this initiative provides matching grants to support the technology commercialization efforts of SBIR Phase II awardees. In 2008, six ISCEP recipients received $1.9 million in enhancement funds through this new program.

Venture Capital Investment Tax Credit

Indiana's Venture Capital Investment (VCI) tax credit is a significant boost to Indiana startup and emerging high-growth companies that are in need of critical growth capital. The VCI credit provides a 20 percent tax credit to the individual or corporate investors in such companies that have been pre-qualified by the IEDC as high-growth potential companies. Investors providing qualified debt or equity capital to VCI-qualified companies receive a credit against their Indiana income tax liability.

The VCI tax credit represents a significant incentive to these early stage investors to invest in Indiana's high-potential, young companies. In 2008, 48 Indiana companies were qualified as VCI-eligible with plans to utilize the VCI tax credit to raise $91.6 million in venture capital funding.

Since the program's inception in 2004, the number of investment dollars pledged to program companies by investors has increased each year and now totals more than $28.2 million. The number of investors utilizing the program also continues to increase each year with more than 1,300 angel, venture capital and corporate investors in our database.

Indiana Small Business Development Center

The Indiana Small Business Development Center (ISBDC) network, through 10 regional centers, assists entrepreneurs and small businesses by advising Indiana entrepreneurs and businesses and linking them to state, academic and private sector resources and programs in cooperation with the U.S. Small Business Administration. Through 2008, the network helped create or retain 2,251 Indiana jobs and helped businesses obtain more than $41.8 million in financing while serving 2,952 entrepreneurs through one-on-one meetings.

The ISBDC provides entrepreneurs with business feasibility and business planning tools, dynamic market research studies, and sophisticated cash-flow and financial analysis. The network strives to improve businesses' access to capital and procurement opportunities, identify markets and customers, and assist in all forms of planning for businesses at any stage of development.

The ISBDC's efforts to work with more viable entrepreneurs and businesses with high capacity for growth are generating results. The ISBDC assisted 195 statewide business starts in 2008 compared to 167 in 2007, and assistance to long-term clients rose 17 percent in 2008. IEDC and ISBDC exposure to high-potential Indiana-based businesses was also increased through the inaugural Indiana Companies to Watch projected an additional 714 net new jobs and $201 million in revenues in 2008.
